1,052 mass shootings in 1,066 days: this is what America's gun crisis looks like.

The mass shooting in San Bernardino, California, is the deadliest in the US since a gunman killed 20 children and six adults at Sandy Hook Elementary School in December 2012.

"We have a pattern now of mass shootings in this country that has no parallel anywhere else in the world," Barack Obama said on Wednesday.

Data compiled by the crowd-sourced website ShootingTracker.com reveals a shocking human toll: there is a mass shooting – defined as four or more people shot in one incident – nearly every day. (Updated on 3 Dec 2015)
